Daniel Correa

Software Engineer

I'm Daniel Correa, a software engineer with a blend of academic and practical experience. My journey in tech started at university and evolved through various roles, including freelancing on projects like Yarn Petals GC and Step by Step English School.

After COVID-19 shifted my career from teaching English, I focused on software development. I specialize in front-end engineering but also excel in back-end development. I create intuitive designs with tools like Photoshop, Illustrator, and Figma, ensuring users easily navigate applications. Combining logic with creativity, I aim to make a positive impact through technology. Let's create something remarkable together.

Experience

2024 - Current

Freelancer

Software Engineer

As a freelancer, I've developed two major projects: Yarn Petals GC, an innovative e-commerce platform offering extensive customization options for yarn bouquets, and Step by Step English School, a comprehensive online teaching platform integrating advanced technologies such as Next.js, Prisma, and PlanetScale. These projects highlight my ability to blend technical expertise with creative solutions, delivering user-friendly and efficient applications.

2020 - 2024

CBMR

Engineer and Operations Coordinator

At CBMR, I combined managerial acumen with technical prowess. I designed and implemented a custom database system to efficiently track projects and safeguard client data, greatly enhancing our project management capacities. I led the development of an interactive, user-friendly company website and integrated Xero software into our workflow, optimizing financial operations by automating invoicing and quotation processes.

2015 - 2020

Aeon & Imagine Education

English as a second Language Teacher

While teaching English in Japan and Australia, I continually sought intersections between education and technology. I developed digital platforms to supplement in-class teachings, ensuring a holistic learning experience. My dedication to leveraging technology for educational advancement resonated deeply within both teaching environments, setting new benchmarks for digital integration in the classroom.

2013 - 2015

TEW Solutions

Graduate Engineer

At TEW Solutions, I honed my software engineering skills by programming electrical systems, particularly focusing on PID configurations and related technologies. My role involved seeking opportunities to innovate, creating tech solutions that streamlined operations and enhanced project outcomes. My contributions in this space not only improved efficiency but also signaled the promise of integrating software engineering principles into traditional fields.

CHRIS BOARD METAL ROOFING

May 2nd 2023

I am writing to wholeheartedly recommend Daniel Correa based on his exceptional performance during his tenure at Chris Board Metal Roofing.

Daniel showcased remarkable proficiency in managing client communications, seamlessly organizing contracts to facilitate clear and timely dialogues. His aptitude for reviewing technical drawings ensured that we could provide our clients with accurate and competitive project quotations.

Beyond his technical skills, Daniel's initiative in digital marketing significantly bolstered our brand presence. He spearheaded our brand promotion strategies, effectively utilizing both our website and Facebook to elevate our digital footprint.

One of Daniel's commendable achievements was the design and implementation of a comprehensive database system. This not only optimized our tracking of project progress but also enhanced the security and accessibility of our client information. Furthermore, his adeptness with Xero software streamlined our financial processes, ensuring the timely and professional generation of client quotes and invoices.

His commitment to efficiency, combined with a natural flair for innovation, undoubtedly contributed to our company's growth and reputation. Daniel's ability to work effectively in a team environment, combined with his proactive approach to tasks, makes him a valuable asset to any organization.

Should you require any further information or wish to discuss Daniel's contributions in more detail, please feel free to contact me.

Best Regards,

Daniel Correa

To Whom it May Concern,

Daniel Correa worked at Imagine Education from September 14th 2017 until July 10th 2020.

During this time, Daniel taught English as a Second Language on a casual basis. He taught approximately 23 hours a week from Elementary to Upper Intermediate levels.

Daniel was a popular member of staff, always reliable and conscientious. He built a very positive rapport with his students and always received very positive feedback. Daniel has always been driven to develop his skills as a teacher and was always happy to take on extra classes if required. He obviously put a lot of thought and planning into his classes and hence had positive results from his students.

Daniel attended to all administrative tasks, was always on time and presented professionally.

I am sure the ESL industry will see Daniel again and I would happily welcome him back.

I wish him luck for the future.

Kind Regards,

To Whom It May Concern:

Mr. Daniel Correa has been a full-time instructor of English conversation with our company since April 2016. AEON is one of the most reputable private language schools in Japan, and therefore we have very high standards for our teaching staff. During his tenure with our company, Mr. Correa was offered contract renewal due to his teaching skills, participation in business campaigns and friendly personality.

Mr. Correa has effectively used a variety of methods to teach lessons to students of all ESL levels. Mr. Correa takes pride in his students' achievements and plans lessons that take their personal interests into consideration. He has an outgoing personality that puts students at ease and he shows a genuine interest in his students as individuals. On our most recent annual Student Satisfaction Questionnaire, Mr. Correa' students specifically praised him for his fun lessons and class atmosphere.

Mr. Correa is also in charge of performing other educational, administrative, and business-related tasks at his branch. These include counseling students about their study methods and goals, interviewing prospective students and judging their English ability, participating in business and sales campaigns throughout the year, and planning students' future courses. In all of these areas, he has consistently fulfilled his branch school's requirements in a professional manner. Mr. Correa has demonstrated an admirable commitment to his role as a teacher and has shown a high degree of flexibility and reliability as an employee.

Adjusting to life in a foreign culture can be very difficult, yet he made an excellent transition into our company and Japanese society. He successfully adapted to a busy and demanding work environment while retaining a high degree of cultural sensitivity and treating his coworkers and students with the utmost respect.

Mr. Correa' stay with our company has been a pleasant and rewarding one and we wish him the best in his future endeavors. We highly recommend him as a personable, professional employee who will be a valuable asset to your organization. Should you require further information about Mr. Correa's qualifications, feel free to contact us.

Sincerely,
